Art Unit: 1793

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 32-55 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. There is no "description support" in the original specification for the process recited in claims 32-55, specifically for the step of "mixing a boron compound in a vapor with a boron—compound reducing gas and a controlled amount of a material containing the dopant element". Applicants' argument, that the subject matter of new claims 32-55 is clearly supported by the original disclosure, for example at page 3, line 16 to page 5, line 3, and by Examples 1-3, is not convincing. The most relevant passage states that "the chemically doped boron coatings are produced by the controlled addition of a dopant vapor to the gas stream normally used to deposit boron", with further passages alluding to hydrogen as the reducing agent. However this would not provide support for "reducing gas" versus hydrogen as the reducing gas, since the term "reducing gas" is broader than "hydrogen". Regarding the claims which require hydrogen as the reducing gas (such as claims 33 and 45), there is still no "description support" since Examples 1-3 and the disclosure of "hydrogen reduction of boron trichloride" relate specifically to boron trichloride as the boron compound and to silicon carbide as the dopant, which would not provide support for any "boron compound" or any "dopant element". There is also no "description support" in the original specification for "dopant element" (versus "dopant vapor").

Claims 32-55 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The term "desired dopant element" renders the scope of the claims vague and indefinite, since it is not clear whether or not a given dopant element would be "desired". It is also indefinite as to whether the term "dopant element" would be limited to an element of the Periodic Table, or whether it would embrace any dopant material.

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thornton, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 32-55 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-3 of U.S. Patent No. 7,294,606. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the instant claims are broader than claims 1-3 of US 7,294,606. Applicants' argument, that claims 32-55 do not imply or require a process step of "exposing the doped boron to a magnesium vapor", is not convincing, since claim 32-55 do not exclude such process step. Applicants' argument, that even in the absence of a terminal disclaimer, the normal expiration dates of two patents based on the same international application would be the same, is not convincing since one purpose of a terminal disclaimer is to prevent uncommon ownership.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
